IN MEMORIAM.

It has been well said, that Te liberator of him whom pardo not release; the physician of his cannot cure, and the comforing a whom time cannot console.

To come facs to face with death us all realize both the truth at comfort contained in the foregoing tation. When death comes to one life a morning has not yet pase noon, we sometimes feel appailed ways asgrileved at his untimely the We are again called upon to what to us seems an untimely at the death of Mrs. Daieth K. Se beloved and honored wife of G. M. van. While the deceased had no a resident of Salt Lake City very having come here only a little morning two vears ago, she during that period of time made a host of the whom mourn her untimely death. Seried only respected, but loved by a knew her. She was but I years and was an honored member of the ern Star lodge of Masons.
